FAMILIES OF CRIMINALS. Argument that the State Perpetrates

a Crime Against Them. Salt Lake City Inter-Mountain Advocate. There is one class of people whom the hilanthropists and lawmakers have almost entirely overlooked, and that is the families of criminals. A case in point. A man with a wife and eight children got into an altercation, in which he killed his assailant. He was sent to prison for ten years. His wife and children were left entirely without sup-The prisoner was confined at hard iabor, but his entire earnings were appro-priated by the State. At the end of ten years, his wife had died of overwork and xposure. The boys in the family had grown without proper schooling, and nearly all harges on society. The girls all went to the bad. Now, let us ask, would it not have been better, would it not have been more in ord with the nobler impulses of humanity and the teachings of higher Christianity had earnings of this prisoner been returned o his helpless family than to have it appropriated by the State? In this case, which s far from being an exceptional one, the unocent become the real sufferers. The a bagatelle as compared with that of the innocent, struggling wife and helpless, hungry children. May we not ask, by what right do we impose needless burdens upon women and children for crimes committed ne State cannot afford to do this from a ial standpoint. In the case cited the man table Tamilies. The chances are that had not the unfortunate incident occurred that the father would have stayed with his family and the boys and girls would have bulletin was issued by the general manager family and the boys and girls would have grown up into respectable men and women. It is also probable that had they received the earnings of their father, which would have enabled the mother to provide them with a reasonable amount of proper food and clothing, together with school advantages, the case would have been very materially altered. From an economic standpoint the argument comes with equal force against the ordinary prison arrangements. It is argued that the prisoner should be made to support himself while undergoing punishment, and, if possible, to pay the State something beside. This is a very plausible argument on its face, but will not stand bement on its face, but will not stand bethe much greater demand of justice as

Are our schools self-supporting? Would it not be well to have them so? Very nice in theory, possibly, but destructive in practice. True, our schools make no eturns to the State in cash, but we conder that the good they yield to society

How about those who have no families? A case in point: A young man of former good habits, but very susceptible to influences, good and bad, stole a horse. He was sent to the Kansas penitentiary, served his time, and was released with $5 in cash, a ticket for home, and a suit of shoddy clothes, such as is furnished by that prison to all released prisoners. One week afterward he ran out money, found no work and all doors ed against him. Despairing of life, he closed against him. Despairing of life, he stole another horse; made no attempt to conceal it; was arrested next day; the day following pleaded guilty, and within a few hours was again in stripes, as a matter of his own choice of two evils. Now, the chances are that if this young man could have been permitted to lay by his earnings for the two years in prison, he would have led quite a different life. He might not have done so; he might have spent it all in drunkenness. No one knows; but do you not think it worthy of a trial? Don't you honestly think that he should have the benefit of the doubt as much on leaving the prison as he had when heading toward it?

Announcement was made at wabash yesterday that William Long, formerly assistant engineer of maintenance of way of the Michigan division of the Big Four, had been selected as superintendent of the new bridge of the Big Four at Louisville and to have charge of the terminals of the road at that point. Mr. Long has for some time been a road supervisor on the Michigan division, and is a civil engineer of ability. It is stated that the appointment becomes effective early in April.

The train records show that but 16,612 loaded cars were received and forwarded LOST-Driver's day book, "cover stamped time book," on Delaware, between Second and St. Clair, or on St. Mary or East Pratt street. The Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton and the Monon are the only lines which show anything near their usual movement of loaded cars. As for some time past the St. Louis lines show a very heavy falling off in loaded car movement, and it is evident the shipments of grain down the river for export via Southern ports is in a considerable measure the cause of the light east-bound grain movement from St. Louis, and that the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City has been considerably blamed for the present conditions. The east-bound movement of produce, provisions, dressed meats, live stock, hides, cerealine products, etc., compares favorably with the corresponding period of last year, but the grain and flour tonnage falls largely below. Still, rates on east-bound freights are so well maintained through the operation will compare favorably with that of March, 1895, when rates were more or less (itmoralized. West-bound traffic was not as heavy last week as in the preceding cre, the heavy snows in New York, Pennsylva-nia and northern Ohio having prevented the forwarding of the usual volume of business. forwarding of the usual volume of business. This was proven by the increased west-bound business on Friday and Saturday. The Pennsylvania, however, did not have as much snow and bad weather to contend with as did the Vanderbilt lines and the Erie. In the west-bound oiling it is said to be noticeable that every pound of freight is now carried at full tariff rates. Local business was dull. The shipments of provisions, produce and manufactured goods were well up with those of preceding weeks of spring will give matters an entirely dif-ferent aspect. Below is given the car move-ment for the week ending March 28, and for the corresponding weeks of 1895 and 1894:

Total movement21,522 23,483 20,142 Still Showing Increased Earnings. The Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City is still showing, from week to week, increased earnings, while other lines show decreases. The road earned in the third week of March $37,183; in the first three weeks of March the corresponding period of 1895 of $12,362. The railroad world is seldom shown a more remarkable development of a railway property than that of this road. Eighteen months ago it was hardly known to shippers, and not in any way considered a passenger line. To-day its freight business compares favorably with that of any of the competing St. Louis lires, and its passenger traffic has in-creased in a manner which not only surprises the officers of the road, but competitors of the line, they no longer looking upon it as an insignificant competitor, but showing a willingness to give it a standing with the other east-and-west lines, and this feeling other east-and-west lines, and this feeling is not limited to the territory in which the road lies, but trunk lines East and the big systems West are currying favor with the officials of both the freight and passenger departments. Of course, some of the credit for this gratifying change to the owners of the property is due to the receiver, R. B. F. Peirce, who, when he accepted the receivership, was determined to bring the road into more prominence, and conditions have favored him. The road, being in the hands of the court, could not become a member of any association, but could, as receiver ber of any association, but could, as receiver Peirce promised, adhere strictly to rates. The road not being an association line, ship-pers who were fighting the Joint Traffic Association at once turned their business to the T., St. L. & K. C., hoping to force the other roads into disloyalty to the Joint Traffic Association, but thus far it has not hurt the association and has handsomely increased the earnings of the road. Since Mr. Peirce took charge a coal traffic has develope which is giving handsome returns in revenue on local business. The officials of the road are active, aggressive men, and its future is steadily brightening. L. L. Mills, general superintendent, and J. W. Sherwood, superntendent, are working harmoniously for the interest of the property. Mr. Sherwood is reported to be discharging his duties effectively, and the T., St. L. & K. The Wabash earned in the third week of March $229,952, a decrease as compared with the corresponding week of 1895 of $7,496. This is the first week this year that a decrease has been shown in comparison with the corresponding week of last year. Despite the statement that the Joint Traf-fic Association managers had protested against the trunk lines putting on higher peeded trains than those now running, the Lake Shore is figuring on putting on the fastest long distance train in the world between New York and Chicago with the tak-ing effect of the summer time-table. John T. Canan, whose death was an-nounced yesterday, was for years a clerk in the Bee-line office, later chief clerk of the Jeffensonville, Madison & Indianapolis, and, until his health failed, was agent of the Louisville Bridge Company at Louisville. He was a man of unusual reliability and was much respected by the railroad fraternity. The finishing touches are to be put on this week whereby a strong traffic alliance will be arranged between the Columbus & Hocking Valley and the Flint & Pere Marquette, and it is believed the arrangements will go still further, and in connection with the Norfolk & Western, another powerful through line will be formed between the Northwest

F. E. Patch, general yardmaster of the Toledo & Ann Arbor at Toledo, has re-signed and is succeeded by J. E. Burns, who, a few years ago, begun as messenger boy on the road. George Foley, a passenger conductor, has been promoted to general night yardmaster. Mr. Patch is well known in railroad circles through his prominence in the National Yardmasters' and the seaboard.

The St. Louis coal-carrying roads have been unable as yet to get the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City to accept as its per-centage anything less than the other roads regard as greatly in excess of its legitimate earning power. Another conference is to be held next month. The development of the coal traffic on the T., St. L. & K. C. has been a surprise not only 'o competitors, but to friends of the property. To correct an abuse the management of the Big Four has given instructions to prevent the furnishing of sleeping-car accommodations in compartment cars between Cincinnati and Chicago, except on presenta-tion of a first-class railroad ticket, and no tion of a first-class railroad ticket, and no sleeping-car accommodations are to be furnished any officer or employe of the Big livered by Dr. David H. A circular will be issued to-day appointing W. R. McKeen, jr., son of W. R. McKeen, ex-president of the Vandalia, general foreex-president of the Vandalia, general fore-man of the locomotive department. He will continue general foreman of the car shops. A Vandalia official states that there are but few men as young as Mr. McKeen who are so well informed in mechanical arts, several ingenious devices of his invention having been adopted by the Vandalia me-chanical and machinery departments.

SOUTH AMERICAN BRETHREN. Suspicious of Our Recent Friendly Overtures. Philadelphia Telegraph

It will be a rude awakening to those who have contemplated a panamerican empire to learn how much sentiment there is against it in the republics sometimes alluded to as our sister republics. During the recent discussion in regard to the Monroe doctrine, many people in this country, from Mr. Olney down, were apparently of the opinion that the United States had but to say the word and there would be an immediate scramble the United States had but to say the word and there would be an immediate scramble among the sister republics to get in under the shelter which we had so generously provided for them. The newspapers of Latin America, however, are not yet done expressing their suspicion of the United States. A Mexican journal asks the people of that country to remember the "international crime" which the United States committed against Mexica a half century ago. A Chileagainst Mexico a half century ago. A Chile-an newspaper is also afraid of this new in-terpretation of the Monroe doctrine, and it observes that the Spanish-Americans have "nothing in common with the peo-ple of the United States." This au-thority says that Spain gave "its race, its language and its culture" to Latin-Amer-ica, and the people owe much more even to France, to England, and to Germany than they do to the United States. It would be dangerous to "all American countries," the Chilean writer continues, were the United States government to extend its influence in the manner recently contemplated. These bursts of sentiment in regard to international friendship are right enough per-haps, but it must be remembered always that they are of little influence in changing human character. They will not convert a people who have been developing for centuries along one line, and make them like a people who have been developing along some other line. This thing of popular character has a greater influence than any other one factor perhaps in giving form and flavor April.

Do you know if a man would kneel in the mud beside a corpse, as Jackson or Walling is supposed to have done, the mud would soak through his trousers and stain the skin? The chemist could tell by examining the flesh whether the man had kneeled at a suspected place." "Was that examination made with Jackson and Walling?" "I'll not answer that," was the significant

It is an open secret in Havana that, owing to the Weyler's determina-tion to resign, and the seeming determina-tion of the United States to recognize the belligerent rights of Cuba, all parties have come together in Madrid, and the Prime Min-ister of Spain will resign to accept the Cap-tain Generalcy of Cuba.

WAR AS IT IS IN CUBA. A Planter's Account of the Present

Condition of Business. A graphic picture of the ruin and devastation wrought by the war in Cuba appears in the follwing letter, dated at Havana, March 13, to a New Yorker, from his brother-in-law, who owns a plantation in Cuba, which he was running until Christmas. Says the writer: "There has been no eruption here on account of the action of the United States Congress. There was great tion here on account of the action of the United States Congress. There was great excitement among the ignorant Spaniards the first day that the vote was published, but it was held in check by the better judgment of the more enlightened. The fact is, the Spanish tradesmen of this city do not want any controversy with the United States; their business interests are too badly crippled already.

"Havana is about the only feeder for the island of Matanzas west to the extreme western part of the island, and many of the articles of merchandise that are intended for the eastern and southern part of the island come to Havana and are there reshipped on coast trading lines. The producing business of the island is completely paralyzed. Only such labor is performed as is necessary for the people to exist. In the city that means nothing done, practically, except the work of the household servants, and their pay has been greatly reduced. The except the work of the hocsehold servants, and their pay has been greatly reduced. The people are buying only such articles as are necessary to live. Many people who have money on hand will not pay debts. They do not hesitate to say that they have the money, but must keep it to be prepared for the worst. Business men are reducing their clerk hire. Tenants are moving into cheaper quarters and families are doubling up, two and three in a house. Hundreds of the inhabitants of the city, with means, are in the United States or other foreign countries. United States or other foreign countries. Even the newspaper proprietors suffer. There is little advertising, and what advertising is done is not paid for. To be sure, it does not cost anything for the news, but the people do not care for the machine-made news of the censor, so do not subscribe.

"In the interior there is absolutely nothing being done. All this leaves the business men in desperate straits. I saw a man pay a bill of about $100 the other day in a store.

a bill of about $100 the other day in a store. I never heard such expressions of gratitude as came from that merchant. He said:

"'We have thousands of dollars standing out and can't get a cent. There is no use in our suing, none of the business men of the city are suing. We are simply waiting to see what the result will be."

"I talked with a number of business men. They say they are doing comparatively nothing, and if the situation keeps the same a little while longer they will have to close. The consequence is they want against the Cubans is because of the fact that all of the offices are held by Spaniards, and they have conducted a system of peculation that has been exasperating in the extreme. The Cubans, of course, have been resenting this for years. There have been criminations and recriminations that have engendered a bitter feeling that will be difficult to overcome. These remarks apply to the officeholding class (many have gone into business after holding office), and such Spaniards as have a peculiar monopoly of trade. There is a class of Spaniards here who respect the Cubans, and who are ready to accept peace at most any price, yet who dare not express themselves to their fellow-countrymen. They say if the proper time comes they will make their influence felt.

"Gomez still remains in the eastern part of the province of Matanzas. Whether he intends to remain in that province or move on east into Santa Chara is not known here. Antonio Maceo is coming back from the province of Matanzas. On the 11th he was at Los Palos, a place of about seven hun-dred inhabitants in the eastern part of the dred inhabitants in the eastern part of the province of Havana. To-day he is reported between San Felipe and Batabano, marching west. The Cubans say he has fourteen thousand men with him. It is said he intends to march back to the city of Pinar del Rio, which is at the extreme western part of the island. He is reported as saying he intends to give the Spanish troops a little promenade if they expect to follow him. His object is to complete the organization and equipment of the insurgent volunteers in the province of Pinar del Rio. The Cubans claim they have thirty thousand insurgent volunteers in that province, and insurgent volunteers in that province sand insurgent volunteers in that province, but they lack arms and ammunition. Weyler's bandos have been driving the men into the insurgent ranks like sheep. The population of the province of Pinar del Rio, as given by the census of 1887, is 224,000. It is quite possible that there may be the number of insurgent volunteers claimed. Four small expeditions are reported arrived on the island. It is certain that Gen. Collazo has arrived. The Mallory, that was detained by the United States government, was a supplement to his main expedition. detained by the United States government, was a supplement to his main expedition. Captain General Weyler has prohibited the sale of petroleum in the country. Most all of the interior towns depend on kerosene for lamp light, consequently the municipalities are in darkness, and the people have to burn candles. Guines, a place of eleven thousand inhabitants, asked for a special permit to get oil for their street lamps, but it was refused.

"The Cubans here cannot and words to express their gratitude to the people of the United States for their interest and sympathy shown in their behalf. All eyes are now turned toward President Cleveland, and each mind is offering up a fervent prayer that President Cleveland may see his way clear to grant beligerency immediately. All the Cubans I met say, 'Thank the people of the United States for me for what they are doing for us.'
